ANNOUNCEMENTS

For Congress

We are authorized to announce
HON. DAVID H. KINCHELOE, of Hopkins county, as a candidate for Congress from the Second district, subject to action of the democratic primary August, 1914.

We are authorized to announce
HON. J. W. HENSON
as a candidate for the Democratic nomination for Congress for the Second Congressional District, subject to the action of the primary to be held in August, 1914.

John Thixton, Sr., one of Owens-boro's most prominent business men, died Saturday, aged 80 years.

The graduating class of Owensboro High School is the largest in the history of the school, 21 boys and 33 girls.

W. Godfrey Hunter, once known as the Gumshoe Republican leader of Kentucky, is said to be about to enter the race for Senator.

A tailless comet, believed to be a reappearance of the Herschel comet of 1790, has been seen in the northwestern sky at Chicago.

Candidates in the August primary must file their petitions with the Secretary of State to get their names on the ballot by June 21 at midnight.

Former Gov. Bradley and his Lieutenant Governor, W. J. Worthington, died within 36 hours of each other, one on Friday morning and the other Saturday night.

Mexico City dispatches to diplomatic sources reported that when the constitutional troops captured Tepic, they put to death the entire federal garrison of three hundred officers and men.

Miss Madeleine Edison, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas A. Edison, will be married on June 17 to Mr.
John Eyre Sloane, in her parents' house, Glanmont, Llewellyn Park, West Orange, N. J.

Moses R. Glenn, of Owl fame, has re-entered journalism as editor of the Dawson Springs Tribune. Moses gets into the harness just in time to go the gaits with the other thoroughbreds at the press convention.

Huerta is repairing the railroad bridges between Vera Cruz and Mexico City, destroyed by his men. When he starts he wants to go straight through and go in a hurry. He is about ready to turn to the Americans as his best friends.

Col. Roosevelt lost 35 pounds from a spell of jungle fever in the wilds of Brazil. For five days he was delirious with a temperature of 105 and in lucid intervals tried to get his party to leave him behind and save themselves. They finally pulled him through by slow stages and he is back in our midst.

Among those considered likely to be appointed Senator by Gov. Mc-Creary are Johnson N. Camden, Gen.
W. B. Haldeman and Allie W. Young.
One suggestion is that the Governor may resign and let Lieut. Gov. Mc-Dermott appoint him, but the appointee is liable to never have a chance to occupy the seat, if Congress should adjourn for the summer, this is not likely.

It is the boast of Kansas that there are 87 counties without any insane, 54 counties without any feeble minded, 96 counties without any inebri-ates, 38 counties without any poor-houses, 53 counties without any persons in jail and 65 counties without a representative in the State penitentiary. We knew Kansas was a tough place, but didn't know its mortality rate was so fearful.

Woman Past Help.

Chandler, Okla.—In a letter from this place, Mrs. Ella Flowers says:
"I hardly know how to thank you for the good that Cardui has done me.
Before I tried Cardui, I thought I was past help, but after taking it I was relieved at once, and gained at least 10 pounds. Everybody says I look so much better. I am still improving greatly." Many women are completely worn out and discouraged on account of womanly weakness.
Are you? Have you not tried Cardui?
It only needs a few doses to convince you that Cardui is just what you need. Try it today. It will cure your pains.

BIG BOOK CONCERN

Uncle Sam Fast Becoming Really Successful Publisher.

Public's Interest in Government Publications is Growing Monthly, as Shown in Continuously Increased Sales of Documents.

Washington.—Uncle Sam is becoming a really successful publisher. As generally known, congress has appropriated increasingly large amounts of money for printing documents on thousands of subjects for many years, but only in recent times has the government attained much success in selling the publications which it prints.
The number of books sold and not the number printed make for the success of either a private or public concern, and it is on this business principle that Uncle Sam now may be rated as a successful publisher.

There has been a tremendous increase in the government's business in selling publications during the last ten years which can only be appreciated after a careful study of the reports of the superintendent of documents of the government printing office, the official through whom all government publications are sold. Josiah H. Brinker, the present superintendent of documents, has recently completed statements which show that the public's interest in government publications is growing monthly and that this appreciation is being shown in continuously increased sales of publications by his office.

During the last year the sales of government documents were nearly nine hundred per cent more than the sales of 1904. Ten years ago the amount of cash received from sales of government documents was less than twelve thousand five hundred dollars.
For each year there has been a steady increase in the government's book business and during the fiscal year ending June 30, 1913, more than one hundred and six thousand dollars was received from cash sales. Superintendent Brinker's books show that, for the period beginning July 1, 1913, and ending March 1, this year, $89,000 worth of documents were sold, against $73,000 worth for the same period a year previous. If the sales continue for the remainder of the fiscal year as heavy as they have been for the first eight months, the government will have sold more than one hundred and thirty-three thousand five hundred dollars' worth of documents before July 1 next, which will be more than twenty-five per cent increase over last year's sales, and more than eleven times the amount of cash sales recorded for the same period ten years ago.

During the eight months beginning July 1, 1913, and ending March 1, 1914, 59,800 letters were received inclosing cash for one or more documents, an increase of 43 per cent over the returns for the same period the previous year, when only 42,000 letters were received. There was also a 24 per cent increase in ordinary office correspondence.

With the increase of sales of government documents there has been an increase of all kinds of business in the superintendent of documents' office.
Besides sending out all of the publications sold by the government for cash, the office of the superintendent of documents, under the present law, also has the mailing of publications distributed by the various departments. During the five months from October to February, inclusive, nearly sixteen million such publications were put into the mails, against less than eleven million for the same period in 1913. Most publications issued by the departments are distributed free, and those which are sold, usually at a very small charge, must be purchased through the superintendent of documents, and not at the department for which the documents are printed.

Notwithstanding the large increase in the sales of government publications and the greatly increased amount of work made necessary by the free distribution of publications for the departments, there has been a relatively small increase in the force of men at the superintendent of documents' office, which has charge of the work. If Uncle Sam's publishing business continues to grow, however, increased appropriations will be necessary, for it is believed that the limit of output has now been reached with the present force and equipment.

The shooting of moose in southeastern Alaska and of mountain sheep in the eastern part of the Kenai peninsula is prohibited until April 1, 1916, by the new regulations published by the department of agriculture, which went into effect April 1, 1914.

The area thus closed to moose hunters for two years lies south and east of the Lynn canal; on the Kenai peninsula sheep are protected east of longitude 150 degrees.

Hitherto Alaskan game has been protected only by a closed season and the system of fees for shooting and shipping licenses. The excellence of the big game shooting has, however, been attracting wealthy sportsmen of all countries in greater and greater numbers each year. The Alaskan bear is the largest known variety and the Alaskan moose-head is regarded as the finest trophy of the kind in the world, the horns sometimes measuring six feet across. In addition, there are splendid specimens of caribou to be had and the mountain sheep, when in good condition, are distinguished from all the varieties found elsewhere by the peculiarly pure white of their fleeces.

The districts affected by the new regulations are among the most readily accessible to sportsmen.

Although the United States exported 1,143,357,441 pounds of meat and meat products Imports of Meat during the fiscal into the U. S. year ending June 30, 1913, and is still exporting large amounts, mostly pork and pork products, oleo oil and tallow, large imports of beef have been received since October, 1913, nearly three-fifths of it from Argentina.

In October 2,609,794 pounds of fresh and frozen beef were received from Argentina and passed inspection by the bureau of animal industry, department of agriculture; in November 3,988,598 pounds, in December 9,440,488 pounds, and in January 8,935,797 pounds; and the total for the four months is 24,434,977 pounds. During the same time from other countries were received 17,729,621 pounds of fresh and frozen beef, and the total from all countries thus becomes 42,- 164,598 pounds.

During the four months the imports from Argentina included also 537,943 pounds of fresh and frozen mutton, 177,801 pounds of canned beef, 1,268,- 887 pounds of oleo stearin, and 470 pounds of edible tallow.

The total meat and meat products imported from Argentina during the four months and not condemned weighing 26,420,078 pounds. Only 1,278 pounds of Argentina beef were condemned as unfit for consumption.

Two-fifths of the imports of fresh and frozen beef during the four months came from Australia, New Zealand, Canada, Mexico and Uruguay.

The present beef production of this country for one year, it is estimated, is somewhat less than seven billion pounds, and the imports of fresh and frozen beef from all countries at the present rate would amount to two per cent of the national production; the imports from Argentina for a year at the present rate would be about 1.3 per cent of the national production.

The newspaper reporter who wrote a story, alleging that Secretary of State Bryan's voice was failing found Mr. Bryan
and His Voice.

when he called the next day to inquire as to its condition. In fact, the reporter got a "bawling out" that was convincing as to the condition of Mr.
Bryan's vocal cords.

A few days later a story was circulated in Washington to the effect that Mr. Bryan "had lost $300." To those who had curiosity enough to inquire how the loss occurred a circumstantial story was told to this effect: That Mr. Bryan appeared at the state department and told of the loss and when friends inquired how it happened he was reported to have replied: "I talked in my sleep last night."

When this story got back to the state department it is said that Mr.
Bryan eyed with suspicion the reporter who wrote the story about his alleged loss of voice, but the latter appeared innocent and discreetly kept his mouth shut so no excuse has been offered for an official inquiry into the matter.

Secretary McAdoo had it in his power to send one job hunter to the pen but he didn't.
He just wrote him a letter, of which the following is a copy:

"I have your letter of November 17, in which you say: 'Mr. McAdoo if you will appoint me as revenue collector I will make you a present of one-third of my first year's wages. I will give you $100 just as soon as appointed and the rest just as soon as I can have a public sale.'"

"Such an offer as this shows your unfitness for public office or public trust of any kind. You do not seem to realize that the era of graft and corruption in American politics is past. I am grieved to discover that there is any man in the United States who seems to think that there is neither moral turpitude nor impropriety in making an offer of this sort.
There is no place for you in the treasury department. The best advice I can render you is to advise you to revise your moral standards."

Almost every conceivable use to reported by the forest service for special projects on the national forests. Some of the uses shown range, alphabetically, from apilary through brickyard, cannery, cemetery, church, cranberry marsh, fox ranch, marine railway, rifle range and turpentine still, to wharf and whaling station.

There are 15,000 permits in force for such special uses, which are distributed geographically from Alaska to the Mexican line, and east to Florida. This figure does not include any of the 27,000 permits in force for grazing cattle and sheep on the forests; nor the 6,000 transactions for the sale of timber, and the more than thirty-eight thousand permits issued last year for the free use of timber by settlers miners and others in developing their homesteads and claims; no the nearly three hundred permits to water power development.
